“ I remember when me and Victoria first met it was like a feeling right there knowing she was gonna be the biggest role model and mentor for me, and she sure was. She asked me to make her a promise that id stay in wrestling all throughout high school. She believed in me when I didn't even believe in myself. It was the lady woman's classic and I had came really late almost late enough to forget weigh ins. She seen me and told me to hurry and weigh in. After I made weight she gave me a hug and told me to get ready to warm up. I realized I had forgot my wrestling shoes. I definitely thought I was not going to have a good day. The way Vicky was is she had different words of love, so she did let me know that I was being irresponsible in her way . I went to tell Coach Alvarez but he was already mad at me because he thought i missed weigh ins. So he just walked away from me. I was upset and started crying. Vicky was right there though to comfort me and tell me it was okay. As soon as possible she called Ben her dad and asked him to bring me her old wrestling shoes. She was so caring and loved us all and you can tell because her love was something you'd always wanna feel. I'll never forget that day because that day was the best I wrestled that whole year just because Vicky was in my corner every time. I miss her and still think about her to this day. I love seeing Mario, Ben, and Sylvia come see us wrestle and support us and her legacy. We know your wrestling up above. I love you Victoria Vasquez. Till we meet again. -Jazzlynn Sollano

“ I had the amazing opportunity to have Vicky as an athlete my first year coaching at PD. She was such a light to those around her and I loved that even after I moved to teach somewhere else she wanted to keep me involved in her wrestling career. I am so blessed to have known you in the short time I did Vicky. I love you so much sweet girl.

“ "V" decided to collect traffic cones from our wrestling travels. While in El Paso, I notice an odd shape coming from her backpack. Sure enough, I had to confiscate a cone that was way to big to get away with. I told her I'd get her one that wouldn't get us I trouble for taking it. "V", Coach Ram still owes you a traffic cone 🙄

“ I met vicky working at The Big Texan. we started the same week, but i was shy and quiet so vicky decided to be the one to introduce herself to me. she introduced herself as “vicky or icky vicky” i thought she was so silly and funny because of how she introduced herself but i loved her energy so much. she was so outgoing and confident, she was all of it and so much more. she made work worth going to because i knew it would never be boring if she was scheduled. my favorite memory of her was when we went to prom 2023, we kept all moving in a little group together with two of our friends esper and anahi to not lose eachother and when we were ready to go elsewhere we all thought it would be okay, it was definitely not. you learn after walking in heels for 2+ hours your feet start screaming at you to take those damn heels off, but we all learned that walking to the car, as we were walking we realized we parked on the street around the side of the building so we took off our heels and ran as fast as we all could around the building until we were too tired and cold to. my favorite part was that before our little run we saw a parked cop car outside the building on the sidewalk and vicky started posing like she did anywhere when we were goofing off, so i pulled out my phone and did a mini photo shoot of her and the girls, i loved it so much. we ended up making my boyfriend Alec also one of her good friends run across the street to grab the car once we made it around the building. in the end we were so out of breath and literally sweating everywhere but she just started bursting out laughing and we all joined her because we knew and felt how much trouble we had just went through but how much fun we just had. vicky always made everything fun to do, even the difficult things we dont always want to do. i loved seeing her do the things she loved, a lash technician, a jeweler making her handmade “james avery” rings, a painter, an artist, and a state champion wrestler! that is what i think when i think of vicky. she is THE greatest woman wrestler amarillo will see and will forever cherish. we keep you in our hearts forever icky vicky i miss you and love you rest easy angel, ya big goof<3

“ Vicky was one of those students that leaves a mark on everyone, even her teacher. She was bright, sassy, funny, and so sweet. I loved her drive, her motivation, her devotion to her family, and the way she challenged me to be a great teacher. She will live on in our hearts and I'll always remember my sweet 4th grader that was a force to be reckoned with on the mat.

“ i met vicky my freshman year of highschool in the PDHS matroom, the first thing i thought was “she’s so pretty” i didn’t know she was a good wrestler, until i got paired up wit her. she’s little but she’s a beast on the mat. she taught me the basics as a beginner and she was tough on me but later on we were good. after freshman year i was no longer in wrestling but i would always run into her in public places and she would always say hi to me even though i didn’t think she would. i always admired how beautiful she was effortlessly and she was talented and she would’ve been so great. taken from us too soon 💔 LLV

“ I met Vicky my junior year of hs. when we both worked at Big Texan. I remember how much she used to brag about how my twin, Stephanie, was her favorite. But she would tease us both about who her favorite was. Vicky was the light in every room she walked in, there was never a dull moment. I remember starting my first year of college and she would constantly check up on how I was doing, and reminded me how much she missed me. She would say, “ you got it twin, you’re the smart one, you’re d1”. Vicky impacted me in many ways but what stood out was her love for pushing herself forward. She never gave up, she worked for what she wanted. She encouraged me to speak up for myself and to go to school and be “educated”. There are many memories that we have together and all I can do is cherish them. I will always love and miss Vicky❤️, she was the purest soul ever.

“ I’m writing this because vicky made the most impact on my life, i rememebr the first time i met her was at the SOTM duals and i had went into their room and i thought oh gosh she’s so pretty she was the sweetest to me ever. we went to this boba place and i didn’t know what to get and i was scared to order for myself, she told me it was okay and if i wanted what she did and i said yes she continued to order for me cause she knew i was anxious about it. this last tournament i got to spend with her was the lady longhorns classic she wanted me to beat this girl that had beat me before and i was so happy she got to see me beat her before she left. she hugged me and told me she was so proud of me, i will never forget all our memories we made together and i wish we could’ve made more. i love that girl with all my heart and she is happy and at peace. -
